

Visa to Libya

Travelling to Libya is now much easier to get a tourism or business visa , to start with. Libya, which hopes to develop its tourism sector and to attract foreign investments, has so far been very difficult to travel to due to complicated visa regulations.

The gradual opening of Libya to foreign tourists and investors nowadays was advanced by the signing of a "Visa Memorandum of Understanding" between the British government and the government in Tripoli. Now, at least British citizens will get easier travel access to the Mediterranean country.

Please note that from 11 November 2007, the Libyan authorities re-imposed a requirement for all travellers entering and exiting Libya to have an Arabic transcript of their passport's details page printed in their passports. And from December 2008 new requirements are imposed, see below.

If you require Arabic Translation, please contact us.
